British super model, Adwoa Aboah has taken Ghana's kaba and slit to the world in a grand style. A picture she shared on her Instagram page captured the hearts of fashion lovers. The kaba and slit was made with Burberry fabric and designed by her aunt (Ernestina Aboah). She showed us her terrific family members; Cousin Kensemah Aboah, Great Auntie Mary Asare, Grandma Gladys Aboah, Auntie Ernestina Aboah.

For the first time Adowa Aboah is photograph in Accra, Ghana as she returns home to visit her family with beautiful caption, 'Never have I been more proud of something. The last part of my series with @burberry Art Directed by myself, shot by #juergenteller Styled by @poppykain. Make-up by @celiaburtonmakeup, outfit by my Aunties Tina. Featuring my cousin @kensemah, Auntie Mary, Auntie Tina and my skrillion @sonny_hall. Thank you to everyone who made this possible, for listening to Juergen and I when we came up with this mad idea. This is what it's all about, do something different, think outside the box and create something iconic. #juergensexadwoa- Going home, back to the motherland. A place where I felt like an outsider but always wanted to belong. Growing up differently, never knowing the mother tongue.

Patronized by the world, one sided images of famine and underdevelopment. Culturally appropriate, continuously stolen with no respect or return.

The world knowing nothing about the magic that Ghana is, the beauty and chaos.

Where my father was born, the other half of my British blood, Accra. Home away from home with the church and the swing and grandma and grand dad, aunties, kente cloth, fufu and buckets for washing. Memories, so many memories of 6 hour journey to visit my other half.

The last chapter and I want the world to know that there are two families, both that mean the world to me, two sides to my story. I want the world to see the beauty and Ghana to have that moment in the light, one that it has always deserved.

I have been claimed by Ghana, told to go and show the world, make them proud. I belong.

So that's what this is, a message of love and pride to my family and the people of Ghana.'

Adwoa has front campaigns for big fashion houses such Burberry, Gap, Versace, Revlon and many others. She covered the last December's British Vogue.

She grew up in London. Her English mother, Camilla Lowther is a fashion photography agent and her father Ghanaian born Charles Aboah is a top location scout. Aboah has an organization for young women called Gurls Talk. She was named British GQ's 'Woman of the Year' for 2017.
